THE GREAT RACE. WINNER OF THE LANCIA CUP

Lancia Second in Contest for the Vanderbilt Cup, in Which One Man is Killed and Two Are Fatally Injured.

Behind him were seen the other fifteen cars and machines selected to take part in this contest, representing four different nations. There was a starting line, and the drivers were lined up in their respective positions. The race was started by the starter, and the cars began to move. The Lancia was second in the race, and the driver was killed. Two other drivers were fatally injured.

Held in a son of Mr. C. A. Hudson, a New York car man, over his right hand, the car was driven by the driver. The race was started by the starter, and the cars began to move. The Lancia was second in the race, and the driver was killed. Two other drivers were fatally injured.

WHY NOT CALL THE TOWN HOPE-LESSDALE?

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Your recent editorial on Hopelade is more convincing than timely. The voters of that town must cast their ballots for the interests of the Draper family or go to the workhouse. Capitalism was supposed to displace benevolent Feudalism, but a few places escaped, such as Hopelade, so I would suggest changing the name to Hopelessdale.
